~~ON DEATH.~~

~~To correct~~

~~IV.~~

~~When I consider how each day's career~~ ✓
~~Doth with its footstep swift yet heavy tread~~
~~Approach my soul to those great regions dread~~
~~And bring my soul youth to timeless death more near,~~
~~Thought strange and sad to one it doth appear~~
~~That I (now who now feel life) must too soon be dead~~
~~Some vague, uncertain sorrow weighs my head — Copied~~
~~And whelms my coward mind with lengthless fear.~~
~~Nevertheless through sorrow rage and tear~~
~~My heart though pain and hope and grow despair yet I each moment's boon shall seize~~
~~Yet will I cling And shape rude laughter from each heart-felt moan.~~
~~Not without hope is most extreme despair,~~
~~I know not death and think it no release —~~
~~The bad, indeed, is better than th' unknown.~~ ✓
